Alberta Wheat Crop

A sample of what A Alberta can do with the best farming methods is pointed out by Hon. Duncan Marshall who says that at the Gleichen agricultural school farm there will be a total grain crop, of all kinds of 5,000 bushels from seventy acres of land. This will be the initial crop at the Gleichen school, and its size is attributed largely to the approved methods of agriculture.

W. I. Conference Ae Edgerton

The Wainwright Constituency Convention was held in Edgerton on August 26th.

The afternoon session opened at 2.30 with Mrs. D. W. Parcels of Chauvin in the chair.

There were about 50 members present.

Mrs. Smith, President of the Edgerton branch gave a splendid address of welcome to the visitors, which was replied to by Mrs. Hornitz of McCafferty U.F.W.A.

Miss Maddock of Edgerton then favored with a solo.

It was esteemed an honor and a privilege to have Mrs. Fleming, the Vice President of the province, present.

By way of introduction she spoke of her many years work in the institute and that she deemed it a very great honor to have been the Vice president of the Alberta W.I. for 5 years, both she and Miss McIsaac, the president being the first officers elected, and both have served ever since.

She took for her topic "My Country, My District and My Home" in which she set forth the privilege of having for our home this great, free beautiful Canada. She dwelt on the length breadth and resources of this land, resources not excelled by any other country.

She spoke of the great influence of the Womens Institute in the districts when they are organized and appealed to the women as W. I. workers to ever keep in mind the high principles upon which the society is founded.

And lastly the home, the dearest spot on earth to all women, let us keep it as cheery and cosy as possible. She spoke of the many devices now on the market for the lightening of woman's labor in the home, the power washing machine has replaced the wash board, the vacuum cleaner, the broom, and many other things which were unheard of in the by gone days, and in the garden, have plenty of vegetables, of course, but don't neglect to plant a few flower seeds, if only a bunch of sweet peas, which more than repay in their beauty for the work expended.

Next on the program came the reading of the reports from the local branches, all of which showed that much work was being done and all were in a prosperous condition.

The next item was a round table discussion, and showed what a large range of subjects the women were interested in.

Mrs. Keith then led in singing "Land of Hope and Glory" and the afternoon session adjourned.

The Edgerton ladies served a splendid supper to all the visitors.

The evening session opened with an overture by Rev. Mr. Taylor and the singing of "O Canada".

The Rev. Taylor then made an address of welcome which was replied to by Mrs. Roy, President of the Chauvin branch.

Mrs. Freeman, of Chauvin then rendered a solo in her usual delightful manner. Mrs. Dally of Ribstone, read a paper on "Farm Economics" which was both instructive and entertaining.

Captain Hudson was then introduced by Mrs. Parcels, having kindly accepted our invitation to be present, and took for his subject "Women's Interest and Influence in Public Life"

He pointed out that the world war had brought a change to women all over the world, they are now entering all fields of endeavour, they are judges lawyers, doctors, in civic offices and even in the law making chambers of the country, and that in all their influence for good was being felt. He stated that this last session was his first experience of women in the Legislature and said he was very pleased with their influence there.

He referred to the effect of the women on the life of the nation and particularly to the influence of the W.I. in the districts where they are formed and urged us during this period of unrest, to encourage social interest of all descriptions in our communities.

He made the fact plain, that in his mind women were not seeking places in the Legislative assemblies, but merely trying to use their influence for the betterment of the country.

He thought their steady influence was much needed in these troublesome times and if women are destined to fill the high offices in the land they will fulfill that destiny creditably and will bring to those offices the keen insight that has marked their progress in the various paths they have chosen to follow.

Mrs. Parcels made a short address of thanks to Mr. Hudson and added that she would note his broad view of women in the political arena.

Then for the singing of "The King" Mr. Maddock of Edgerton was chosen to close.

Chauvin W. I. Notes

The regular monthly meeting of the Chauvin W. I. will be held on Wednesday Sept. 1st in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 3 o'clock.

The Chauvin Womens Institute is to have their annual speaker, on Saturday Sept. 4th in the Westminster church at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Newhall, who was the first president of the Confederation of Calgary and until recently Convener of Committees of the National Council of Women, is to be the speaker, she is heartily interested in Institute work and a very splendid speaker. All the ladies are invited to attend whether members or not.

After a short program tea will be served.

Editor Represents Alberta Rural Press

The editor left for Edmonton, Monday, to attend the press convention in honor of the visiting Imperial press who visit Edmonton this week.

It is an honor to the Chauvin district that its paper should be chosen as representing the North Alberta rural press.

Alberta Wheat Will Average 40 Bushels

Twenty-five bushels per acre is the estimate for the Alberta wheat crop by the department of agriculture.

A forecast of eighteen bushels per acre published a few days ago, but it was not large enough, and instead of 66,295,000 bushels, the total yield will amount to nearly 80,000,000 bushels.

Alberta was at the head of the list even on the eighteen bushel basis, but provided that the harvest weather holds out satisfactorily, the yield in this province, according to the government officials, will be far in excess of the estimates made up by outside parties.

Police Patrol Back From Long Trip To The Arctic Seas

In charge of an insane Esquimo who has been taken to the Asylum at Ponka, Staff Sergeant Clay and Constable Corneilus, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, have just reached Edmonton from the most northerly outpost of the white man in Canada.

It will be remembered that two Esquimaux were brought to Edmonton some years ago to be tried for the murder of a missionary in the far north, and were held at Fort McPherson for some time as punishment. These two men, Aluksak and Senniak, formed part of the party under Sergeant Clay, and were taken from McPherson just a year ago, and returned to their tribe on the Coronation Gulf.

Leaving Fort McPherson the party proceeded down the MacKenzie river to Herschell Island where the Hudson's Bay Company's "Fort McPherson" was used to transport the police and their charges to their destination on the Coronation Gulf.

The journey on the Arctic ocean occupied about ten days and the party finally arrived at their destination, one thousand miles to the east of Herschell Island, establishing a police post at Fort Epworth which is the most northerly outpost of the white man in Canada.

Neither Steffanson's theory of the Esquimaux is correct or not, but the fact that they possess European features and have blue eyes and light brown hair is admitted.

Game is abundant in Coronation Gulf, vast herds of musk-oxen and caribou roam the barren lands, some of the caribou never migrating further south, but remain on the island feeding grounds for the entire year round.

Accompanied by the two Esquimaux returned from civilization, the police conducted a number of long patrols. From Fort Epworth one long journey was made into the bottom of Bathurst Inlet where an Esquimaux tribe called the Killwiktomant was met with. These people, as is common with all the Esquimaux, proved most hospitable, and received a working knowledge of the laws of Canada from the police.

In addition to the two Esquimaux who had visited Edmonton for trial, the party also included two others, Konik and Kikana, who had been taken to Fort McPherson charged with murder but had been acquitted. These men were returning to their wondering relatives on the Coppermine river.

A second patrol from Fort Epworth was conducted along the south shore of Victoria Land where numerous bands of Esquimaux were met with who proved equally as hospitable and pleasant as their compatriots on the main land.

Some on Victoria Land had previously seen white men, while several old men of the Bathurst tribe could remember the relief party which visited the country years ago looking for the ill-fated Franklin.

A third patrol was made to the Kent peninsula where further bands of the natives were encountered. All these trips were, of course, made with dog teams, traveling in the depth of winter being possible from about 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. after which it becomes rapidly dark.

The caribou are found going north

Letters To The Editor

Chauvin August 27th 1920.

Dear Editor
I would deem it a favor if you would publish the following few lines in a column of your paper.

Regarding the letter wrote to the Government about the Management of Road Work.

I ROBERT PRICE was the only one involved in the writing of the aforesaid letter. And I would also beg to state that my reasons for withdrawal from my intentions of the letter, were not that I could not prove the majority of my statements, but, merely because Mr. C. Kirby addressed me as a gentleman on the subject and I wrote a note annulling the letter, as a special favor to Mr. C. Kirby. And I would also advise the inquisitive ignoramus who is doing the gossiping around this matter to hold his tongue and so save himself a considerable inconvenience.

Thanking you in advance for the valuable space in your paper

Yours truly ROBERT PRICE

The Reverse Process

It is the opinion of leading authorities in the live stock trade that there never was a time when the inducements to grow more and better beef cattle were any greater, or as great, as they are now. Some years ago the inducement to grow more and better cattle was that they could be produced cheaply. There were large ranches on the open prairies. There was abundant opportunity for winter pesture. But then the price of cattle was low and destined to fall until it was proportionate to the low cost of production.

Since that time tremendous changes have occurred. There is no longer a great, wide-open range country, where cattle could be fed to the feeding stage and sometimes to the market stage on grass and hay alone. Hay was not considered in the early years of the ranching period, and only phenomenal losses forced men to provide winter feed. The price of cattle has been broken down when the season was over. One after another have been broken down, and the price of cattle is now up to the point where it is not a great cattle market left.

For the last few years the ranches have been emptying themselves on the markets; so that the supply of cattle in the markets is no longer an indication of the supply of cattle in the country. The price of young cattle went up by leaps and bounds when the ranges were filling up. We are now having the reverse process. Hence there is a better prospect for the grain belt farmer in this business of feeding more and better beef cattle.

The distillers of Scotland have made a definite move to produce power alcohol, and it is anticipated that 30,000,000 gallons from home production should be possible within a reasonable period from the laying down of new distilleries.

Chauvin High School Breezes

Decided again to look through the Breezes column into the world, or rather, to give the world a glimpse of us.

Dorothy Saul elected as chief Editor Eileen Ellis and Irvine Goede as assistants, and these people were instructed to contribute jots of news on Fridays.

A Basket Ball practice held on Friday evening, August 27th.

An interesting fact is that the attendance in the senior room for the week was 100 per cent.

We noticed one of Bad High School girls (not striped Idiots however) caught a Salamander the other day. It is interesting to relate that we all knew it wasn't a lizard, for the simple reason that lizards don't inhabit this corner of the world. Also, lizards have scales, and te nails, and no gills.

The School Board is being extremely good to us. They have authorized the purchase of extra chemical and physical science equipment.

We now have a chance to study masonry, a cement floor is being laid for a coal shed.

Mr. Goede has almost finished painting the Chauvin School buildings

AADVERTISE YOUR BRAND
YOU SAVE THE COST

we know you are all saying, and we agree with you, its a vast improvement.

Oh, By the way, we have a new janitor, Mr. Irvine Goede, and so far he is doing fine.

You all remember how we used to get somewhat smashed up playing baseball. This year, Bing has received all the knocks. I guess Lizzie could sympathise with him.

Miss Freeman reports that the phonograph is a perfect soft pedal.

Already Flossie has started to keep the parlor lights going; we all know what that menas.

Mr. A. G. Sim, late of Chauvin High School is second in command at Claresholm, now, we wish him all success.

We all can say that Olive Folkins and Annie Saul are all conspicuous by their absence. They are at Camrose Normal. Here's hoping they work.

The chairs of our well known members, Lizzie Morrison, Sadie and Cecil Burton, Ina Armour are as yet quite vacant. We are wondering if they will be occupied by their former owners soon, or will some stranger take the stand.

Base ball, basket ball etc. are great things. The paper towels, the liquid soap etc. installed by the Board some time ago are nn great demand as result of hearty indulgence in the afore mentioned sports.

Our new members enrolled are Thelma Villa, Eleanor Harris, and Winnifred Royce. We expect more after harvest time.

Mrs. Saul neglected her duties when she was making jam to talk to the Principle and Mr. Goede, who is working on the coal shed. 'Tis only by the best of luck that the jam didn't burn, or boil up. Perhaps she will be more careful henceforth.

Meeting of the Teachers' Alliance will be held at the home of Mr. Laws Saturday, September 4th.

Chauvin citizens, don't be alarmed The students have not turned murderers. They are not collecting beetles and butterflies for amusement either. They were seen walking along with a net, dangerous looking to all things foolish enough to fly into it, and a bottle in which to put the victims. Look out, all ye foolish ones.

On account of ur recent victries the girls feel highly elated, and are practising diligently. Next practice is on Friday evening Sept 3rd we expect all who can to help us.

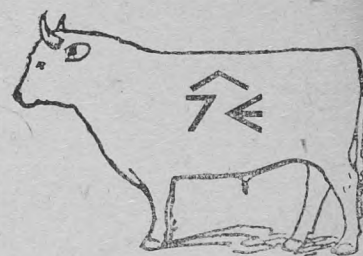

Hard work s the order of the day.

Farmer May Get 40c. For Certificates

When final disbursements are made, it is believed by W. H. Wood, president of the U.F.A. that the value of wheat participation ertificates will be found to be considerably in excess of forty cents a bushel. Mr Woods returned recently from a meeting of the Wheat Board of which he is a member.

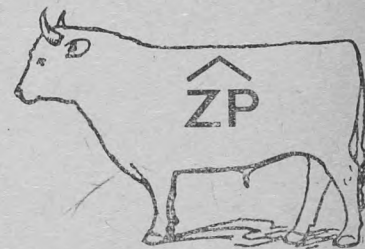

The amount of the advance now being made on certificaes is 30 cents, very greatly in excess of the predictions which were made in many quarters when the wheat board was under fire last winter. When the board first made the announcement some months ago that the farmers would receive not less than 30 cents, it was discovered that some of the farmers who had been sceptical of the prospects of securing prices much in advance of the first payments, had sold certificates as low as three, five and ten cents. Afterwards there was a tendency to believe that 30 cents would be fairly near to the final value of the certificates, but Mr Wood's announcement opens up the prospect of a very much larger total disbursement than hand generally been anticipated.

A Birds Eye View

BY RUSTICANA

Stooks here, there, and everywhere, constitute most of the landscape these days, and every day the farmer not content with those already in evidence, maketh haste to make some more.

The grain is in excellent condition,
the frost is withholding its chilly hand in a way that merits grateful recognition, and the only fly in the amber is the hired help proposition, ently bent on beating all the other costs.

The farmer is back to his old time game of guessing what he'll get for his wheat this fall, but he says "one sure guess is he won't get enough to make it pay him to hire help at $8.00 a day and board.

We noticed that one of the newspaper men now touring Canada as Imperial Pressmen remarked that our rolling prairies with their bounteous crops, and other good looking attributes reminded him very much of the vast veldts at home (He is the Editor of a Johannesburg Daily)

Dubtless he meant this for a compliment, seeing that some of us have a habit, when pleased with anything, of gaciously admitting that it is just like we were used to at home,—but personally we had always thought of Canada, especially in the West, as being away ahead of South Africa, in good looks!

You may have noticed in the papers, that in Duluth, Minn., or some such lucky spot across the border sugar is away down to 17 cents, a pound. In answer to the rush of questions as to "why this was thus," the shopman made reply that "It was on account of Canada dumping so much over the border,"! or words to that effect.

Can you wonder that our tones are very "tart" as we say "Now where is that Board of Commerce"?

It is all very well for Premier Meighen to go around making impassioned appeals for "sanity, clear-headedness, and peace till the clouds roll by," or something like that, —we're just as anxious as he is to get back to the good old days,—but he'll have to do a little more than talk if he wants to convince us, that he has not got the proper line of 'dope' to cure the country's ills. He may get on all right without sugar so long as he gets enough political sugar plums—or on the other hand being only a lawyer the price of a new binder may never have kept him awake at night, but before he has proved himself eligible for our confidence he'll have to take a fair square view of the country's need, and give up his pet obsession, that a lawyer knows what a farmer needs, better than the farmer himself!

We noticed in last week's Chronicle that the Editor was making a few remarks on the recent exams, what he said struck us as being both sensible and timely, and we'd just like to add that it doesn't matter how good our teachers are, nor how careful the parents are in seeing that the young idea is encouraged to shoot along lines suitable to its age—until some one akes hold of the curriculum and eliminates enough of the frills and fads in it to let the fundamentals get more at-acquiring it.

If you see two chaps standing on the sidewalk these days, and they strike you as looking like a tableaux

the fireside-Fighter how he (the F.F.) would have won the battle if he had been there"—you will be right the first time if you guess, that the one is an Agricultural Fair director and the other is the fellow who did nothing but look on, and the latter is giving the A.F.Dir. a dose of what he calls constructive criticism on his Fair day mistakes. Constructive criticism we may explain is nine times out of ten just a plain "kick" camouflaged with a little frill called friendly advice, to try and conceal its "grouchy" look.

True the onlooker may see most of the game, but its a poor role anyway

Alexander O. Ross, a Canadian yachting enthusiast who has issued a challenge to the New York Yacht Club to compete for the American cup in 1922. Officials of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron declared they were willing to co-operate with Mr.

Ross in his plans to capture the cup but expressed doubt as to the practicability of raising funds by public subscription throughout the Dominion to build a challenger with the assistance of all the Yacht clubs from Nova Scotia to British Columbia.

Editorial

There is a marked lack of confidence finding expression almost daily in our community. This has been borne in upon our mind by a number of conversations in which we have been engaged in recently. We refer to that feeling on the part of a number of the rural dwellers that the town men are profiteering at their expense.

For our part we have no sympathy with those who continually cry "Wolf! Wolf!" nor on the other hand have we and regard for those, who, like the ostrich, bury their head in the sand to avert the oncoming danger. We are not prepared to call our local merchants "Wolves" on the one hand, nor are we quite prepared to hold our heads under the sand before the ever growing feeling of dis-satisfaction.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that certain lands in the Village of Chauvin will be offered for sale for arrears of taxes and costs at two o'clock p.m. Saturday November 27 A.D. 1920, at the office of the Secretary—Treasurer. The list was published in the Chauvin Chronicle issued August 4th 1920. The list of of lands included all arrears of taxes up to December 31st 1919 with penalties up to July 1st 1920.

The Village will accept payment of arrears of taxes with costs up to the time of sale.

Dated at Chauvin, this 20th day of July 1920

The root of this dis-satisfaction is to be found in the rising cost of living—a cost which has risen in our own community less than the average the world over—but still a rise sufficient to materially affect our tables and our backs. These rising costs, first set in motion by the war and continued afterwards by the efforts of society to readjust themselves on a sounder financial and less imperfect social conditions—a world-wide state of affairs—has led to a discontent, which now urgently requires a most careful analysis and a remedy.

It is but normal that we should in our own district feel our share of such conditions. And naturally our buyers demand explanations from our sellers in the case of buying supplies for the farm and the home, the demand for explanation is demanded by the buyer and the seller the local merchant is one from whom the explanations are called for. On the other hand, the merchant with the higher priced goods laying between him and his customer is forced to both demand explanations from his supply house and give explanations to his customer. Further the supply house in turn is asking or should be asking and giving explanations. This process is and has been repeated until the are informed of two things:—the cost of food has forced up the cost of labor; and the cost of labor has forced up the cost of food. These explanations doubtless are true but do not contain all the truth—we may add the rising cost of raw material and freightage, and then the average person is still dis-satisfied. He feels that at one or more places along the line the products travel there are persons profiteering.

It is quite natural then that the first man along the line—the local merchant—will receive the challenge to prove that he is not profiteering.

Equally naturally, a failure on his part to disprove profiteering, be he innocent or guilty, will be taken by a large number as prima-facie evidence that he is regularly profiteering.

Never before in the history of the West were more strenuous demands made on the local merchant, nor was the necessity of him vindicating his right to exist more insistent. We are not doubting that he will make good. In fact he must make good or quit to exist.

The running of an ordinary small town business is infinitely more exacting than running the ordinary farm—exacting in every known sense of the word—it is not the easy and profitable business it appears. But, and here is the joker, would it not be well for a merchants to prove this satisfactorily to their customers.

The presence in every home of the illustrated and priced mail order catalogue is a direct challenge to the local merchant. It is a challenge that can be met. Suppose for instance that it is intended to buy a large parcel of goods, the costs of which are ascertained from a standard mail order list then give the local merchant an opportunity to quote thereon. If his quotation is reasonable give the order and cash, let him get the goods, subject to refund if not satisfactory.

This leads to a further suggestion that our local merchants might perfect a scheme of co-operation for taking care of orders that interlocked the various lines of business. Greater care could be given to avoiding duplication of stocks by more careful coordination (to-day we find merchants carrying as sidelines, the essentials of other businesses). It is easily possible to remove some expenses of doing business by courageously studying the question mutually and taking action in concert.

The future is full of bright prospects to the merchants who is able to interpret the newer demands of the public and to align his business to fill those demands.

The Railway Situation

Has business in Western Canada outgrown the railroad facilities? This seems to be the reason for the serious situation which developed during the past winter.

The transportation problem in Western Canada is presenting many difficulties. The extraordinary development of the country in point of industry and commerce has been taxing the railroads for some years. The moving of the Western crop has become such a gigantic task that each fall the danger of a freight blockade becomes more imminent.

The only feasible explanation seems to be that the transportation facilities have not kept pace with the development of the country industrially. In view of the fact that everything points to the present year breaking all records the necessity for an improvement in the freightage facilities becomes a matter of grave import.

Somehow or other a fellow's pretty sister isn't half as attractive as some other fellow's homely sister.

It would seem that the more people are advised to get their winter supply of coal now, the more they don't do it.

Police Patrol Back From Long Trip To
The Arctic Seas

in the fall and coming south in the spring, and cross Coronation Gulf in countless numbers, while some, as before stated remain on the islands and on the Kent peninsular.

The latter place is about 200 miles east of Coronation Gulf, and here is one of the great hunting grounds of the Arctic Musk-oxen are also found here in large numbers and it was partly to warn the natives against wantonly slaughtering their meat supply that the patrol visited this territory.

Prior to the advent of the police the Esquimaux had staged a big hunt and had slaughtered far more animals than they could possibly use. The musk-ox meat, Sergeant Clay states is good but slightly strong in taste.

At Bernard Harbor there is a missionary of the church of England who travels over the entire country. This gentleman, the Rev. Mr. Merritt, receives great praise from the Police Sergeant for the tactful manner in and apparently does not endeavor to force religion on them, as in the case with some missionaries.

The Esquimaux are easy-going people and very cheerful, are anxious to learn all about the ways of the white man and copy him on every possible occasion, while they recognize the mounted police as the law, and accord them due deference.

The tribal laws are few, and the principal offences are wiped out under the feud system, one family killing the other off until the stain is avenged. There is no such thing as a marriage, but as a rule, one man has "one" wife but the bigger the hunter the more wives. It is evidently a case of supply and demand, and one instance was related in which one hunter kept the whole tribe in food and was consequently recognized as paramount chief.

There are no other white men in the region which the mounted police patrol with the exception of Captain Peterson of the H. B. company, who operates a post for the big fur traders about one hundred miles to the west.

There is much surface copper to be seen in the Coppermine river country, from which the natives make their spears and arrows. The country is all belonging to the barren land type, but as a general rule timber is found from forty to a hundred miles back from the coast.

Each band of Esquimaux keeps in its own territory but in the spring all surrounding tribes meet at Port Epworth for the seal fishing when 800 or 900 are in temporary residence in about 150 ingloos. After the seal operations are over the various bands then return to their own hunting grounds.

The two Esquimaux who returned from Edmonton were regarded with much awe by their compatriots, and in every ingloo held the floor for hours telling of the wonders of the white man. Strange to say what interested them most was the packing plant in Edmonton, and on this subject they would dilate for hours, but for the street cars or trains they did not profess much wonder. The unusual interest in the packing plant was explained by Sergeant Clay, the manner in which it appealed to the Esquimaux mind being that the white man when in need of food went to a big house where there was an abundance of food and all that was necessary for him to do was to carry it away, whereas the Esquimaux has to hunt for his.

This factor made a tremendous appeal to the primitive people and at every halt the same story had to be told and re-told to the amazement of the Esquimaux.

Some of the natives possess firearms but the majority of them depend on bows and arrows with which they can kill the deer and musk-oxen with ease.

Having returned the Esquimaux to their people, a start was made for the "outside," Port Epworth being left on March 15th, and Edmonton reached on August 13th, Sergeant Clay and Constable Cornelius had the dog teams and equipment and proceeded from the mouth of the Coppermine river, south across country to Great Bear Lake; the Lake was crossed on the ice, the Bear river being followed to Fort Norman on the MacKenzie, from where they started up the river on a small scow, but running into an ice jam between Fort Norman and Fort Good Hope, lost the dogs and all their equipment.

The jam took them into the centre of the river, which is a mile wide in this neighbourhood, and it was a certainty that the scow was doomed, the dogs were cut loose, and never seen again.

From this point the men started to walk to Fort Good Hope, a distance of 130 miles, but luckily they found an Indian canoe in a cache on the river bank which was utilized to go to the fort.

After two days at Good Hope a start was made for Fort McPherson where Inspector Woods, of the Arctic sub-district was met with. Leaving McPherson the usual route was followed by Fort Smith, McMurray and the railway to Edmonton.

To remove marks of hot dishes from polished wood cover the place with gether, leave it for an hour then rub off with leather.

ARTLAND ARGUS

The Sunday school meeting at Brady on August 23rd was most successful. A large attendance was present and the address by Mr Wood was highly appreciated. Mr Wood was pleased to note the progress made by the school under the advisory committee system. The real meaning of that system is, that the school may be a community school for the purpose, both of religious instruction, and for the training of workers.

Mr Woods visit was the return visit of the official organiser, who in that capacity addressed the school and a congregation composed of Brady, Artland, Cliffe and Stanmore districts.

It is announced that the Brady district will certainly have a minister in their midst next spring.

The average attendance at Brady Sunday school is now 47, and improving each week.

It is proposed that each scholar receive the usual weekly literature during the winter months. Contributions for this purpose are invited.

Prepare For Shortage

As the season for the annual crop shortage approaches it is timely that warning be sounded to those most vitally interested, the growers of grain, to take thought of the situation they will find themselves in when the threshing begins.

The railroads have announced their intention of endeavouring to cope with the grain handling situation much better than they ever have been able to do in the past by providing all additional motive power and rolling stock possible for them to assemble by the time it will be required and without doubt they will do their utmost to fulfill their promises.

There can be no gainsaying the desire of the railway companies to move the grain crop expeditiously if for no other reason than self interest—and railroads usually strive to serve their best interests—but it must be remembered that there is a limit to the locomotives and cars the railroads are able to build and purchase in a season and it must also be remembered that unless all the signs of the times go wrong there will be a most prodigious crop to handle while at the same time, with the enormous increase in population of the year, there will be a very large increase in the amount of coal to be handled in order to insure the comfort of the inhabitants of the grain provinces during the winter which follows the threshing season so closely. The coal and grain will have to be handled at the same time and in addition, with the prevalent prosperity, general throughout the west, there will be an enormous increase in all other kinds of traffic.

At this distance from the car shortage season, which means, of course, the big freight moving season it seems inevitable that a freight blockade and car shortage combined is ahead of the west, for it seems to us that if the railroad could provide ten times the equipment they will be able to, they could not supply all the cars that will be needed or move all the freight the west will require to have moved during the last three months of the year.

We do not in the least question the good faith of the railroads, nor do we doubt that the public bodies and others interested in the evidence of complications, will do all they are able to do, but we do not believe they will be altogether successful and we would therefore urge with all possible emphasis upon shippers to look ahead and do all they may be able to do to relieve a situation which we believe they are bound to be confronted with.

And the farmers themselves can do much to help out the situation. In the light of the experience of past years we believe it behooves every farmer who can possibly do so, to provide storage at home for at least a portion of his grain.

Other shippers, also, we would urge to look ahead and so far as possible, make provision for their late fall shipments with a view of having the mouth of the way.

If these things are done shippers will accomplish much for themselves and materially assist the railroads to meet the situation, while the great losses of last season may be obviated.

NOTICE

I am offering for sale my herd (a son of the $20,000.00 bull "Missies Prince") Also three of his sons including the calf which was awarded the Short-horn Championship at the recent fair at Chauvin.

Quality considered these are priced reasonably and the calves if bought now may be left to run with the cows until Nov. 1st at my risk. Come early and get the pick of the bunch.
